HISTORY OF GREENE COUNTY PENNSYLVANIA
PROFESSOR ANDREW JACKSON WAYCHOFF

ANDREW J. WAYCHOFF, author of 151 articles which appeared in the Waynesburg Messenger in 1925, was a native of Greene County, Pennsylvania. He was the son of Johnson and Delilah (Rich) Waychoff. Professor Waychoff was born in Jefferson township, April 12, 1849. All of his life was devoted to teaching. In 1873 he was graduated from Waynesburg College, and began teaching in Steelton, Missouri; was an instructor in Indiana State Normal School for five years. From 1887-1890 he was County Superintendent of schools for Greene County. For more than thirty years he was a member of the faculty of Waynesburg College, being head of the Department of Science.

1686827

After retiring as a teacher he devoted his time to research and the preparation of articles on the pioneer history of Greene County.

He was the organizer of the Greene County Historical Society and was planning a permanent home for it. He had collected much valuable data and many interesting relics for the museum.

Professor Waychoff was an authority on Indian lore, and through the years many of his students had sent him valuable material to add to his collection.

He was elected Curator of the Greene County Historical Society and served in this capacity until his death.

Just before his death Professor Waychoff sent five of his 151 articles to Lucretia Emily (Donley) Garretson. These articles; 43, 44, 45, 46, and 47, have been copied and indexed for the Iowa State Historical Library.

The data from the other articles may be secured by writing to the present Curator of the Greene County Historical Society, Frank B. Jones, Curator, Waynesburg, Pennsylvania. (See index for names.)
